MANY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Gleaned From Various Sources—
Little Points Picked Up By Vigilant Reporters.

Bre'r. Groundhog evidently saw his shadow yesterday.

French measles have been prevalent here for the past two weeks.

Regular meeting of the Borough Council next Monday night.

William P. Earnest of West Pitt Street is seriously ill with typhoid fever.

The large hallway in the Odd Fellows' building is being painted and papered.

Groceryman John Line is suffering from pleurisy at his home on West Pitt Street.

Samuel Naus is ill with pneumonia at the home of his brother, S. L. Naus, East Pitt Street.

The monthly meeting of the Bedford Board of Trade will be held Tuesday evening. Everybody out.

Borough Treasurer Harvey G. Davidson has been confined to the house the past two weeks with grip.

As fine a carload of horses as ever left this county, it is said, was shipped by Livestockman Stiver to Newburg, N. Y., last Saturday.

Engineer Wilson of the H. & B. T. R. R., with his family, moved into Mrs. D. B. Diehl's house, East Penn Street, on Tuesday.

George A. Calhoun recently returned from a three-weeks' trip through West Virginia. His son Robert is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Twin babies—a boy and a girl—were born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. McLaughlin on Wednesday. Both mother and babies are doing well.

H. C. Heckerman, the P-nut man, contracted this week for 10,000 bags of peanuts, which will be shipped to the Bedford plant in installments.

Hereafter the regular monthly meeting of the Sunday School Board of the M. E. Church will be held the last Monday evening of each month.

A civil service examination will be held at Steckman, tomorrow for the purpose of selecting a postmaster for the Chambersville office. The compensation last year was $181.

A. B. Egolf, our wide-awake lumberman, has purchased a large tract of timber land in Kimmel Township from I. B. Plocke. Operations on the tract will begin in a short time.

On Wednesday of last week Blair Stiffler of Friend's Cove cut his foot very seriously with an axe. He was chopping in the woods when the accident occurred. Several bones were cut off.

Francis Smith of Southampton Township has sued the Standing Stone Farmers' Insurance Company of Huntingdon County to recover the sum of $400, being the loss sustained by the burning of the plaintiff's residence.

Among the relatives from out of town who attended the funeral of the late James Cleaver on Friday were Samuel D. Sansom of Harrisburg, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Rook, of Altoona; William Y. Poorman of Schellburg; Wilbur Cleaver and son, of Somerset.

The members of Washington Camp, No. 185, P. O. S. of A., Saxton, will dedicate their new hall Saturday evening. A number of the members of Camp 81 of this place will attend the services and a banquet, which will be held in connection with the ceremonies.

Robert McMullin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver S. McMullin, of this place, was injured in a collision between a passenger train and a trolley car at Akron, O., on Wednesday. Mr. McMullin was a passenger on the trolley car. It is not known just how badly the young man is hurt.

The next number of the Mann's Choice lecture, and entertainment, course will be "A Night in Venice," presented by Elbert Poland and his group of Italian boys. They will appear in the school auditorium Monday evening, February 6. This company is composed of artists who merit large audiences. Don't miss the opportunity.

Wednesday morning an alarm of fire was sent out from Juniata College, Huntingdon. The fire started beneath the floor on the third story in a room occupied by Russell Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Blackburn, of this place. The cause of the fire is unknown. The students formed a bucket brigade and the flames were soon extinguished.

"Dreamland" is the name of a new moving picture show house, which will be opened to the public this evening, one door east of the Bedford House. George Biser, the proprietor, has the room equipped with up-to-date moving picture apparatus, including a fire-proof booth for the machine. He promises high class entertainments and nothing but good, clean pictures will be thrown upon the screen.

Engagement Announced

At a bridge and "500" party given at the Hanman residence, Johnstown, on Wednesday, the engagement of Dr. C. E. Hanman of that city and Miss M. Louise Fyan of this place was announced by Miss Gertrude E. Hanman, sister of the groom. The wedding will take place in June.

Mrs. Samuel S. Diehl

Mrs. Carrie Elizabeth Diehl, wife of Samuel S. Diehl, died at her home in Bedford Township, about three miles north of Bedford, on Tuesday, January 31, of a complication of diseases. She was a daughter of Jacob and Catherine Sleek and was born in Napier Township on July 2, 1853, being at the time of her death 57 years, six months and 29 days old.

In March 1873 she was united in marriage with Samuel S. Diehl, who, with the following children, survives: Harry R. of Massillon, O.; John C. and Percy T., of Johnstown, Pa.; Walter J. of Altoona, Pa.; Elsie M. Herschberger of Greensburg, Pa.; Samuel Earl, Frank and Vernon W., at home. Two brothers, Jacob Sleek of Marion, Ind., and William Sleek of Saxton, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Beagle of Schellburg and Mrs. Rebecca Sellers of Bedford, also survive her.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at her late home at 1 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. A. G. Hermann of the Reformed Church, assisted by Rev. A. S. Luring of the Wolfburg M. E. Church. Interment will be made in the Bedford Cemetery.

Mrs. Diehl was possessed of a jovial disposition, and had many friends. She was a kind neighbor and a good wife and mother.

Mrs. William Carbaugh

Mrs. Anna Eliza, wife of William Carbaugh, died at her home, West John Street, on Saturday, January 28, of a complication of diseases, aged 62 years, three months and 15 days.

Mrs. Carbaugh was born in Bedford October 13, 1848. In 1866 she was united in marriage with William Carbaugh, who with the following children, all of Bedford, survives: John, Mrs. Frank Milburn, George, Lena, Percy and Elsie. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Albert Davis and Mrs. John Croyle, both of Bedford.

The funeral service was conducted on Wednesday by Rev. Father William E. Downes in St. Thomas' Catholic Church of which deceased had been a member for a number of years. Interment was made in the Catholic Cemetery.

Anthony Mock

Anthony Mock, a Civil War veteran, died at his home near Imertown on Sunday, January 29, at 10:30 o'clock p. m., aged 79 years, seven months and eight days.

Mr. Mock was born in Spruce Hollow, near Lovely, on June 21, 1831. He was united in marriage with Miss Anna Allison who preceded him in death. The following children survive: Miss Mary E. Mock, Mrs. G. W. Trout and Miss Emma J. Mock, all of Huntingdon; Elmer E. of Imertown and Charles of Bedford.

The funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at Mt. Union Church near Lovely and was conducted by Rev. J. C. Powell. Interment was made in the graveyard adjoining the church.

Mr. Mock was a member of Co. K, 55th Regt. Pa. Vol. in the Civil War. He was a member of the Evangelical Church.

Miss Margaret A. Mickel

Miss Margaret A. Mickel died in Cumberland shortly before noon on Sunday, after being confined to her bed for a few days by a complication of diseases, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Francis P. Naughton, with whom she had made her home for 20 years, aged about 45 years.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William P. Mickel, of this place. She is survived by two brothers and three sisters: Maj. James P. Mickel of Bedford and Job W. Mickel of Hollidaysburg; Mrs. Naughton and Miss Ida, of Cumberland, and Miss Mary of Hollidaysburg.

The body was brought to Bedford where mass was said by Rev. Father William E. Downes, pastor of St. Thomas' Catholic Church. Interment was made by the side of her parents in Bedford Cemetery.

REV. WIEAND ACCEPTS

Will Become Pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church March 1.

Rev. H. E. Wieand, who a few weeks ago preached a trial sermon to the Lutheran congregation at this place and was subsequently extended a call to become pastor, has tendered his resignation at Juniata, where he has served the Lutheran congregation for nearly ten years, and will begin work in his new field about March 1.

From the Altoona Tribune of Monday we clip the following concerning his resignation and his work at Juniata.

"The Rev. H. E. Wieand has resigned the pastorate of Trinity Lutheran church of Juniata to enter a new field of work in Bedford. No more startling event has occurred in Juniata church circles during several years past than the beloved pastor's tendering his formal resignation near the close of preaching service yesterday morning, a congregation many of whom were melted to tears attending to the place Mr. Wieand holds in the hearts of his people. Some time ago the minister was asked to supply for a Sunday in the vacant pulpit of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Bedford and the good people of that charge were so pleased with his personality and his sermons that they later extended to him a call to occupy the pulpit permanently. After careful consideration Mr. Wieand has decided that it is his duty to accept the call and has taken the formal step in severing his pastoral connection with the Juniata charge.

"The retiring pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church is in his tenth year of ministry to that congregation, coming to Juniata June 1, 1901. He has dated his resignation to take effect on February 28, rounding out an even nine years and nine months of work in the borough from which he and his good wife are about to remove.

"Rev. H. E. Wieand and his wife have won for themselves a lasting esteem in the hearts of the people of Juniata and their going forth is a matter of genuine regret—not only to the members of his congregation but to the community in general. He is a cultured Christian gentleman of unquestioned ability in the pulpit, and ever aggressive in the cause of righteousness, and the Bedford Lutherans are certainly to be congratulated upon their acquisition.

"Under his pastorate of little less than ten years in Juniata the Trinity Lutheran congregation has grown from about 100 to more than 500 active members, and the church has expanded from a small charge with a little frame house of worship into a magnificent edifice which was dedicated four years ago. The various branches of church work are all running smoothly and the services are well attended—the pastor alone having a catechetical class of over 100 young people.

"Rev. Mr. Wieand is a graduate of Gettysburg Seminary and when called to Juniata was taking a post graduate course in philosophy at Franklin and Marshall College. His last previous charge was at Three Rivers, Mich. He is prominent in many branches of Christian and educational work, holding responsible positions as director of Susquehanna University of Selinsgrove, vice president of the State Society of Christian Endeavor, member of the Board of Education of Allegheny Synod, president of the City Christian Endeavor Union (Altoona), president of the Altoona Ministerium, treasurer and member of the Remonstrance Committee of the Anti-Saloon League. While his departure is regretted he will go forth with the best wishes of his fellow workers in Juniata."

Laws of National Guard

For the benefit of members of the National Guards who may not know the law this section is printed so they may see the penalty for "appropriating" State property.

"Section 89. If any person shall knowingly and wilfully purchase or receive in pawn or pledge any arms, accoutrement, article of military clothing, equipment, etc., or any quartermaster or ordnance store or property of the state or nation, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and being convicted thereof in any court, shall be sentenced to imprisonment not exceeding one year and fine not exceeding $300."

Court Notes

On Thursday the Associates approved the report of Jasper Luman, James H. Cook and Jacob Feichter, inspectors of the bridge over Glendon's Run in Londonderry Township, finding that the bridge had been completed in a substantial and workmanlike manner.

In the execution of the Somerset Trust Company vs. Annie McNamara and Robert C. McNamara, leave was granted to abandon the levy made by the Sheriff.

Mrs. Martin to Give Recital

Mrs. Agnes Stover Martin, reader and impersonator, will give a recital at St. Paul's Reformed Church, Cessna, next Friday evening, February 10. She will be assisted by local talent. Mrs. Martin is eminently successful in her line, especially in her artistic rendering of selections from Riley and Field and parts of Tennyson's Enoch Arden. The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. This entertainment will be a rare treat for the people of this community.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Salesman Sees the Ohio on the Rampage.

Catlettsburg, Ky., January 30, '11. Well, if you at home are having as much rain as we are in this section your reservoirs must be full and overflowing and the mud knee deep on your main streets—this latter because they are not paved. 'Tis raining hard here and it has been at it so long that the mountain streams are wild, running over their banks and filling the great Ohio River until it looks today like a perfect sea of water.

The Adams House, where I am staying, is on the very bank of the Ohio. I can sit here and see the great drifts pass down. My windows overlook the river and with this sea of water in front of me and a nice gas fire at my back I am nicely situated, all snug and dry from the storm.

Several years ago I was in this section and as I beheld the Ohio with its towering banks on either side and then the wide stretches of meadow land reaching back to the foothills, I gazed at it all and thought I should like to see the Ohio bank-full. The next March, I think it was, I was again in this section of God's domain when the rains fell and the river rose. Yes, indeed, for I was taken out of this very room in a boat by stepping out of this, the second story window, into the boat.

There was no connection with the outside world save by boat; the interurban cars could not run, and for two days the C. & O. could not. The water was everywhere and it came up to the second story of this hotel. Why, after the water subsided one could see all kinds of rubbish almost anywhere; good-sized buildings were on the main street; off from the water or the bank of the river. One very large steamer, I remember, was probably a quarter of a mile out, and I have been told that it cost hundreds of dollars to dig a canal so as to float it back when the next flood would come.

I saw the Ohio on a rare and I had quite an exciting time of it and don't care to have the same experience again, though I must confess that these little experiences help drive the monotony of a traveling man's life away.

I had the pleasure of calling on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunkle at their elegant home at Parkersburg, W. Va., last week. I also saw the white dog which Mrs. Dunkle said had not had his bath for several days, and "pon-hpon!" I don't see how anything could be white after using such muddy water as they must use there at this season of the year. But no doubt the sand that they get into their stomachs from drinking this muddy river water helps digest their waffles much as the sand does the waffles' corn. Why, there was so much sand in the water that I used to shave with that it ticked my razor and made shaving as irksome as could be. Oh! thank your stars, every one of you, that you have such elegant water as you have at Bedford.

Frank has twenty-three horses and is getting rich hauling dead people. He stands in with all of the undertakers and doctors and his good wife with the clergy, so that between the three—preachers, cast-iron men and pill providers—he stands in the front row for furnishing carriages, etc., for all funerals.

George Calhoun, of your town, was down there a few days ahead of me selling sweetness. I did not see him however. Our old townsman, Jim Gilchrist, now of Marietta, O., is ill; he says he has not done a thing since last fall. I said to him, "What a blessed thing, Jim, it is that you have a wife that can work." He said "Yes." Mrs. Gilchrist is the foremost and most fashionable dressmaker in Marietta and always employs six or eight girls.

My, how it rains! My heavy overcoat gets soaked and it doesn't get dry from one day till the next.

The talk all through West Virginia was the great Schenck trial at Wheeling; now, however, that the case is over the jury standing 11 for acquittal and one for conviction and the prisoner turned out of jail on her own recognizance, the people can turn their attention to other things. I wonder what there will be next to fill the papers with?

Every day brings its pleasure or pain to those who are looking for these things, though it does not always bring orders to the salesman. Dad, however, has had no reason to complain since on this trip, though on a part of it two brokers and another P-nut salesman were just ahead of him; still he is glad to get even the crumbs of orders that fall from the other fellows' tables, and if either of all three of the others have sold $2,500 worth of P-nuts in the past week they have had to get up earlier than Dad. He who has a thousand friends, has not one friend to spare, and he who has one enemy shall meet him everywhere." Next week I shall go to Lexington, Ky., and likely get to Louisville.

Yours truly,

M. P. Heckerman.

Fire Destroys College

Maryland College for Women, Lutherville, Md., was practically destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning, the loss being estimated at $100,000, about one-half covered by insurance.

Though there were no casualties many of the students lost practically all their personal effects. President Gallagher lost a most valuable library. A number of students from this county have attended this institution.

CONFERENCE OF S. S. WORKERS

Executive Committee and District Presidents Meet Here.

A conference including the Executive Committee of the Bedford County Sunday School Association and the Presidents and Secretaries of the districts was called to order in the M. E. Church, Bedford, at 10 a. m., on Wednesday by President W. S. Lysinger. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. C. Stayer. The subject of providing means to defray the expenses of Presidents and Secretaries in attending the conferences was discussed and it was decided to appeal to the District Organizations for the same.

State Field Worker, B. S. Forsythe being present suggested that the aim of the State for the coming year be "increase," and spoke at length on the subject. He said that it is possible, no doubt, in the county to increase the attendance 25 per cent. On motion of A. H. Whetstone the plan of 25 per cent. increase for the county was adopted. The increase was apportioned as follows: District No. 1, 400; No. 2, 400; No. 3, 400; No. 4, 350; No. 5, 100; No. 6, 200; No. 7, 200; No. 8, 500; No. 9, 350; No. 10, 400; No. 11, 200; No. 12, 250; No. 13, 200; No. 14, 100; total, 4,050.

It was suggested by Field Worker Forsythe that cards be printed setting forth eight points of excellency and that one be posted in each school of the county. On motion of S. W. Salkeld, duly carried, the plan was adopted and the President, W. S. Lysinger, was instructed to have 200 cards printed. The conference adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

The afternoon session was called to order by President Lysinger. Prayer was offered by Field Worker B. S. Forsythe. The time of holding the county convention was fixed for June 8 and 9, if approved by State Secretary W. G. Landes. Saxton was suggested as the place for holding the same.

District conventions were arranged to be held during the last week of February. A conference of all county and district officers will be held on April 5, in Bedford, convening at 10 a. m.

The following attended Wednesday's meetings: W. S. Lysinger, M. H. Kramer, J. C. Stayer, D. N. Byers, A. H. Whetstone, S. W. Salkeld, C. W. Blackburn, J. Reed Irvine, G. W. Hoover, J. A. S. Beagle, Augustus Troutman, Elias Gibson, Miss Margaret Blackburn, J. A. Cuppett and W. F. Biddle.

Elizabeth C. Arnold

Miss Elizabeth C. Arnold died at the home of her brother-in-law, Ed. D. Heckerman, West Pitt Street, on Wednesday, January 25, of chronic bronchitis, aged 75 years.

She was a daughter of John Arnold, deceased, and a sister of the late Brig. Gen. A. K. Arnold. She is survived by two brothers, Walter J. of Chester and H. T. of Tulsa, Okla., both of whom were here for the funeral.

Miss Arnold was an intellectual woman and taught school in Bedford for a number of years. She was in charge of an Episcopal school in Philadelphia for some years.

The funeral services were held at the residence of Mr. Heckerman on Saturday, conducted by her pastor, Rev. William E. Everest, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church. Interment in Bedford Cemetery.

Ralph W. Barnett

Ralph W. Barnett, for the past eight years proprietor of the Bedford House, Hopewell, dropped dead in his room shortly before 10 o'clock Monday evening of this week.

He retired to his room after dancing in the parlor of the hotel, and shortly after was found unconscious by one of the family. Medical aid was summoned but without avail. He died without regaining consciousness. He was 50 years of age.

Mr. Barnett was born in Berks County. He came to this county some years ago. He married Miss Kate McIntyre of Six Mile Run, who, with the following children, survives: Misses Olla, Etta and Mabel and Louis, Robert and Milton.

Mr. Barnett was a member of the Elks, P. O. S. of A., Red Men and Moose. Huntingdon Lodge of Elks will have charge of the funeral Saturday afternoon. Interment in Everett Cemetery.

Bessie E. Mundwiler

Bessie Edna, daughter of David and Odessa Mundwiler, died at the home of her parents at Clearville on Wednesday, January 25, aged two years and 20 days. Besides her parents, one brother, John, and two sisters, Della and Mary, survive.

Funeral services were conducted on Friday in the Union Church at Clearville by Rev. D. G. Hetrick, assisted by Revs. J. Gulden and W. S. Stonaker. Interment in the Clearville Union Cemetery.

BROWN'S SOUTHWEST STORIES

Conclusion of the Zuni Articles and Something About the Famous Navajos.

(Written for The Gazette by M. J. Brown, Editor Little Valley, N. Y., Hub.)

A little more of Zuni and its people and then to other places, and I will state that this Indian village has been the most fascinating spot, from a newspaper viewpoint, that I ever tried to describe and the hardest to make pen pictures of. Zuni and its strange people must be seen. Words can't draw the pictures.

In a previous letter I stated that I was there during one of the Indians' sport days, and in relating the sports I neglected to tell of one novel and interesting foot race.

By white men it is called the "stick race," but the Indians have a guttural handle for it, with several syllables, that a Yankee could never remember.

Small sticks about the size and length of a lead pencil are prepared, and the ends are stained red, to make easily distinguishable, and then two teams of runners, as many on a side as care to enter, start the race.

Each Indian has his particular stick and this he throws with his toes, and the race is won by the team that can cover a certain number of miles the quickest, each runner carrying his stick with him—or rather throwing it ahead of him with his feet. He must not touch it in any manner other than with his bare feet. Riders on ponies accompany the runners to keep watch where the sticks fall and point them out. Often they will drop into a bunch of cat-claw or cactus bed and the Indian must fish it out with his bare feet.

And it is simply wonderful how expert these half-naked youngsters become in handling this little piece of wood with their toes. They would pick it up as quickly as I could with my hands and throw it as far.

They run these races from five to fifteen miles, straight out and back, and over prairies covered with all kinds of vegetation that pierces and cuts and abounding in diamond rattlesnakes, tarantulas and lizards.

I saw only the send off of the race, for I could not keep up with the procession, and as there was not a white man or English speaking Indian in the crowd I could not learn the distance or how soon they would return. It was over an hour before the first runner got in and the trader at the store told me my Indian won.

About a mile from the Zuni pueblo there rises a great cliff, one of those strange masses that dot the southwest, shooting straight up from a perfectly level prairie. The idea that these places give me is that once upon a time this country was a sea, and these masses islands. The waters subsided and the islands stand.

I was a full half hour gaining the top of this cliff. The sides were steep and the soil crumbling, sinking, shifting sand, where I stepped twelve inches and fell back eleven.

But I made it and it was worth while. I judged the elevation was about five hundred feet, and on top of it were many acres of level, dried-up and cracked-open land, each crack the home of countless big, black, hairy tarantulas—the great spiders that almost defy you to molest them. And I didn't molest them. I well remembered a little incident in Texas a few years ago, when I got one of these big fellows away from his hole and tantalized him with a long brush. I remembered of how he finally jumped at me—and I haven't teased tarantulas much since.

On top of this mesa I found ruins of Indian life that must have dated far back of Zuni, ruins almost obliterated by simple time. The trader said he had lived there fifteen years but had never been on this top. He said the Indians call the cliff To-yo-la-na, and their legend was that when the Great Spirit drowned the earth, the Zunis found refuge and safety there. But as Noah isn't here to verify this, don't date the foundation of Zuni before the flood, for there may not be anything authentic about it.

When I left Zuni I well knew it was for the first and last time, for it is too far from the market places to be handy, and the weary stretches of sandy road don't make one yearn for the second trip. And when we were out a half dozen miles I stopped the rig and looked back at Zuni, that gray, mysterious double village, and I took a farewell look of the most interesting odd spot I ever visited.

Remote from civilization and very little affected by the Spanish influence of the old days and the American influence of the present time, Zuni retains almost wholly the customs of the days before the conquest, and the weird, strange village makes an American pinch himself to know that he is not dreaming, and to look at his note book to convince himself that he is not in some savage island, but is really almost in the center of his own country.

And there it stands today, out in the edge of the Great Dry Land, in a valley of thousands of acres, and there its people live as they did long before the new world was dreamed of. It is one of the many wonder spots of which the southwest is filled, and which our country neglects, and one need not travel to other lands to satisfy a longing for the curious. New Mexico and Arizona are filled with them—and Zuni is but one of hundreds of wonderful places of the southwest.

North of Zuni, perhaps a hundred miles, is the Navajo land, and what a wonderful difference there is between the Navajos and the Zunis.

The government has given this tribe a large reservation, but if the whole state or Arizona was given them they wouldn't stay within bounds.

The Navajos are rovers, fighters, weavers, silversmiths and all that the Zunis are not. No bunching up with these fellows and no degeneration. They scatter and hide all over their own reservation and in the forest reserves. On the way to Zuni the driver went out of his way, and a half mile back from the road to show me a Navajo home.

The stone house was hidden where one might pass it a dozen rods distant and never know it was there. The family was away and the door was locked—the padlock showing that Lo was fast taking to the white man's ways. Back of the house was the crude wooden frame where the squaw wove the world famous blankets, sitting on the ground for weeks and weeks. No doubt she and her master were then in Gallup bartering away the blanket she had worked on for three months—trading it off for ten dollars' worth of the white man's goods.

The Navajos are a splendid tribe of our first Americans. Fighters, every man of them, proud as Italian counts, and a tribe that bends the knee very slowly and very stubbornly to the white man's law. They scatter, hide their homes, and mix with other tribes, and they are rich in jewelry and stock.

It is the Navajos who have made so much trouble for the Tiffanys of New York—who own the big turquoise mine twenty miles from Santa Fe, and who recently overpowered the guards, plundered the mine, and sent word to Tiffany they would kill him if he ever returned.

It is rather a sad thought that the Indian must go, that every year the white men shuffle his deck and make new restraints, and he is now up to where he must face payment.

The Indian was born to the simple life and nature never fitted him to fight the white man under rules of survival. It is natural for the red

ALL OUT OF SORTS

Has Any Bedford Person Never Felt That Way?

Feel all out of sorts?
Tired, Blue, Irritable, Nervous?
Back feel lame and achy?
That's the story of sick kidneys—Bad blood circulating about;
Uric acid poisoning the body.
Just one way to feel right again,
Cure the sluggish kidneys;
Do it with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Josiah Cook, First Ave., Hyndman, Pa., says: "About a year ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease and lumbago and there was a dull pain across my loins that made it difficult for me to do my housework. My entire system was affected and I was all run down when I began the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The contents of a few boxes improved my condition in every way and gave me relief from the symptoms of kidney trouble."

ED. D. HECKERMAN SUCCESSFUL

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Prices.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, Ed. D. Heckerman, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half-price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles that Ed. D. Heckerman is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness, gas on stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation, and all forms of liver and stomach trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

So great is the demand for this specific that Ed. D. Heckerman has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once, or send 25 cents, and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half-price offer with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

man to follow the lines of least resistance—not to "compete." Work means to him simply to live, with little thought for the morrow. For ages his people have lived in the great west, with the great out of doors all his own, and his habits are too firmly rooted to ever be made over to the white man's laws and restraints.

And Lo is going down for the count, for he doesn't know and cannot play the game.

As the west fills up he will be elbowed out. The white man covets his lands and the white man will have them.

The white man's reasoning is that nothing should lay in waste, if a white man wants the waste, and you will see the reservations contracted, the Indians bunched closer and closer and soon he will be but a memory.

But before I forget it, let me tell you a little story, not relating to the Indians but a story of a sorry little old man—who was bigger for a few minutes than President Taft ever will be.

Fort Wingate and Fort Defiance are a hundred miles apart, and the soldiers were being taken from one fort to the other to harden up their legs, so 'twas given out, but I have an idea the war scare in Mexico might have had a little to do with the exercise.

Anyhow they were being marched up the mountain and marched down again. Ahead of us was a little dried up man driving a pair of cayuses that looked as if a feed of cactus once a day was the best they ever got. The officer rode ahead and asked the two teams to pull out and let the soldiers by, but the man and his rams paid no attention, and kept the road. The next time the West Point fellow thought was a splendid time to shine in authority so he rode up and commanded:

"Get out of the road and let the United States soldiers by."

The old fellow didn't even tilt his chin as he drawled out:

"You go to hell and get out of the road and let the United States mail by."

How to Tell if Your Hair is Diseased.

Even if you have a luxuriant head of hair you may want to know whether it is in a healthy condition or not. 98 per cent. of the people need a hair tonic.

Pull a hair out of your head; if the bulb at the end of the root is white and shrunken, it proves that the hair is diseased, and requires prompt treatment if its loss would be avoided. If the bulb is pink and full, the hair is healthy.

We want every one whose hair requires treatment to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We promise that it shall not cost anything if it does not give satisfactory results. It is designed to overcome dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, to stimulate the hair roots, tighten the hair already in the head, grow hair and cure baldness.

UNIQUE STORIES OF PENNSYLVANIA CRIME

Startling Series of Readable Articles For North American Readers.

That "truth is stranger than fiction" is no empty saying is apparent in a series of articles soon to be published in Sunday issues of the Philadelphia North American. The first will appear next Sunday, February 5.

Under the general caption, "Pennsylvania's Greatest Crime Mysteries," one of the articles will appear each week. Crimes that have been the talk of counties for years will be attractively presented, with a view to bringing out the noteworthy features rather than to repeat the horrible details.

Each article will be clothed with the charm of graphic presentation and will read as engagingly as the works of the writers of the great detective stories. The articles will have historical value in that they will present in concise and complete form the facts that became known piecemeal at the time of the occurrences treated. The series will be of especial value to those who are making a study of criminal law and to those who study the causes and consequences of crime.

The first article of The North American series will deal with "The Murder Mystery of Baer's Woods," the crime that ranks as the most mysterious in the history of Chester County—one in which two men gambled for high stakes, a life and a fortune on the table.

Backache, Rheumatism, Nervousness Means disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills have helped your neighbor; they will also help you. Mrs. G. Ake, Altoona, Pa., says, "For several months I suffered with my kidneys and pains in the small of my back. It was painful for me when stooping and made me dizzy with severe headaches. My kidney action was irregular and painful and when I read of Foley Kidney Pills I decided to try them. After taking them a short period all kidney misery left as did also the pains in the back. Those dark spots before my eyes have disappeared and in general the pills made me feel exceptionally good. I desire to recommend them highly to anyone in need of a kidney medicine." Ed. D. Heckerman.

HOTELS IN PORTUGAL.

Paying One's Bill There Becomes a Duel in Politeness.

When traveling for the first time in Portugal one is apt to become exasperated when he desires to settle up with his landlord at the hotel. When the traveler asks how much his bill is the landlord bows gracefully, smiles suavely, rubs his hands together and replies that the bill is as much as the guest wishes to contribute. This is simply the opening of a duel of politeness, for the hardened traveler at once thanks the landlord for his confidence in him and again very courteously asks for a detailed statement of his account. Still the bill is not forthcoming, for the landlord declares that he does not wish to insult his guest in any such manner. Finally the landlord does reckon up the charges on his fingers. When he has finished he asks the traveler how much the sum total is. If the traveler hasn't kept track of it the landlord very laboriously goes over the account again. If the guest has footed up the bill the landlord is sure that it cannot be so much and insists on a re-reckoning. The result is the same, and the landlord invariably needs to bring two or three more fingers into use for items that had been accidentally omitted.

Needless to state, the traveler not hardened to this process breathes a deep sigh of relief when he "escapes."—Boys' World.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation. Drastic physics gripe, sicken, weaken the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regulents act gently and cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross. Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's GREAT FAMILY DOCTOR BOOK, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

Throne Jewels.

In the "gold pantry" at Windsor castle, one of England's chief royal palaces, is the gold tiger's head taken from Tipoo Sahib's throne in 1789. It is life size, and the teeth and eyes are of rock crystal. Another relic captured at the same time is the jeweled bird called the uma, shaped like a pigeon, with a peacock tail. The feathers blaze with precious stones, and a great emerald hangs from its breast. According to an old Indian legend, whoever owns this bird will rule India.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A RECORD FALL

It Was Remarkable Not For Distance, but For Results.

Writing in 1841 of a fall from an immense altitude which did not result in death, a French observer, M. Manzini, declares that he had searched in vain in the annals of science for a similar case. We can well believe it.

The victim or patient was a tinsmith who had been engaged in putting up decorations on the occasion of the belated obsequies of Napoleon the Great in the lofty dome of the Church of the Invalides in Paris. When busy moving a ladder on the top of a high scaffolding he overbalanced himself and, in obedience to some obscure instinct, jumped clear of the ladder and the platform, crying to his fellow workmen as only a Frenchman would, "Behold me quit!" With these cheerful words on his lips he fell eighty-two feet, bounding in one place off the roof of a little dome, which caused him to describe a second parabola in the air, and landing finally, feet first, on the slate roof of a small sacristy.

Crashing through the slates, he landed astride a rafter, where he was found sitting, surprised but coherent, for he was able to give his name and address when asked for them. He had no recollection of this and became unconscious when put to bed shortly afterward under the care of the great Pasquier. His insensibility lasted a very short time, however, and he made an extraordinary rapid recovery, having sustained no apparent injuries, either external or internal. At the end of a month Pasquier found him quite well.—London Lancet.

THE SQUAW'S SHAWL.

It Must Be Just So to Suit Her Fastidious Taste.

The Indian wears his blanket on the hottest summer days. His theory is that if it keeps out the cold in winter it will keep out the heat in summer, says Ben M. Myers of Oklahoma City.

While he might not care to buy anything else expensive, the price of a suitable blanket is never questioned, but it would be difficult indeed to deceive him as to the texture of any robe.

"A squaw will imitate almost anything that pleases her fancy, but in the matter of her blanket or shawl she exhibits an unusual amount of individuality. With great care and patience she designs her blanket, and when she places the order with the mill man he does not dare duplicate it until she has had an opportunity to wear it.

"If she makes the request that it shall not be duplicated her wishes are regarded, because it is the one article she possesses in which exclusiveness is much coveted and also because what would please one squaw would not appear at all attractive to another.

"The lightweight shawl or blanket is thrown over the head of the squaw, and unless she is able to purchase a bright colored silk kerchief it will serve as her only bonnet as well. It is just as common a sight now to see the papoose securely bound on the back of its mother by a portion of her blanket as it used to be to see the wee head of the Indian babe peeping from the tekas, or frame cradle."—Washington Herald.

Confidence in the Mails.

Having sent a strong box key by mail in an unregistered letter, a clerk was told by his employer that the key "arrived O. K.," but that the means of transportation "adopted showed too much confidence. In answer the clerk said, "Ever since a New Year's eve incident of two years' standing my confidence in the postoffice is great." And pressed for an explanation he said, "That evening, or early in the morning rather, a man came out of a restaurant rather the worse for celebrating. He had a wallet in his pocket containing considerable money and was uncertain as to the honesty of his companions. He went to a letter box, forced the wallet through the slot and continued to make a night of it. It required considerable red tape to recover his property, but he got it."—New York Tribune

Tipping and Treating.

There are two practices in this country that are being justly condemned. One is tipping and the other treating. To be sure, we are not responsible for originating either. Away back in the days of Queen Elizabeth every coffee house had a box bearing the inscription, "To Insure Promptness;" hence T. I. P. Neither is treating an innovation. Some of the Caesars, so says history, used to get huffy when their guests could not see the bottom of the glass often enough. But both have got such a hold on Americans that they have come to be recognized as national habits, and the latter sometimes as a national evil.—Indianapolis News.

A Willing Witness.

"Did his actions have an air of verisimilitude?" the lawyer asked the witness.

"What was that, sir?"

"I say, did his conduct wear an air of verisimilitude?"

"Oh," replied the witness. "Sure! He was verisimilitudin' all round the place."—Saturday Evening Post.

Women adore Idols.

"Do they?"

"Don't they? Why, when a woman's idol proves human she's stronger for it than ever."—Toledo Blade.

Legend of Holyrood Palace.

Holyrood palace, Edinburgh, Scotland, once a British royal residence, is the subject of a strange legend. Robert Louis Stevenson alludes to it in his little book on Edinburgh. "There is a silly story," he writes, "of a subterranean passage between the castle of Holyrood and a bold highland piper who volunteered to explore its windings. He made his entrance by the upper end, playing a strathspey. The curious footed it after him down the street following his descent by the sound of the chanter from below, until all of a sudden, about the level of St. Giles', the music came abruptly to an end and the people in the street stood at fault with hands uplifted. Whether he was choked with gases or perished in a quag or was removed bodily by the evil one remains a point of doubt, but the piper has never again been seen or heard of from that day to this."

National Short-sightedness.

"In this country," said the sociologist, "everything possible is done to discourage people from marrying."

"How so?" inquired one of the listeners.

"You have to buy the marriage license, fee the preacher, the boys give you what they call a 'shivaree,' your friends throw old shoes at you, the newspapers print caricatures of you, life insurance agents bound you, you bump right up against the cost of living, and if you find you've made a mistake you have to go to no end of trouble to get a divorce."—Chicago Tribune.

His Strong Point.

"This is a pretty bad report card," said the father of the young hopeful as he looked over the teacher's figures. "You seem to be 'poor' in pretty much everything."

"That's 'cause teacher only puts down th' studies I ain't good in. I ought to have 'excellent' in one thing."

"And what's that?" hopefully inquired the father.

"Fightin' I can lick any boy in th' class!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Take your arm away, sir!" sharply exclaimed the indignant maiden.

"So," said the young editor musingly, "an unexpected accident, we regret to say, prevents our going to press."—Chicago Tribune.

ANOTHER ESTIMATE

The following from a Pittsburg paper escaped our notice during the days immediately following the inauguration of Governor Tener. Though a little late, we feel we should, in justice to the distinguished citizen, "disseminate" the complimentary remarks.

"Lieutenant Governor John M. Reynolds presided over the joint session and after the verification he heralded forth the result in a voice of some resonance. Mr. Reynolds' voice is one of his most interesting characteristics. It bridges the range of all human emotions. For instance, yesterday, when he delivered his inaugural address it appeared to be floating on a sea of tears, but those within view quickly perceived that he was not weeping, the sorrowful cadences which fell from his lips being due to an oppressive sense of the responsibilities he was about to assume.

"It is true that this personal official obsession caused him to hold in waiting Governor Tener and the big parade for a half hour and it was mighty cold outside, but a Lieutenant Governor is no mean person and posterity is entitled to his inaugural flotsam and jetsam. And it should be remembered that Mr. Tener and his triumphant caravan of celebrants finally moved away without the honorable Lieutenant Governor."

THE OVER-SHIMER SONG

Long the claim has been made that great minds run in the same channels, and without attempting to delve into the depth of psychological phenomena to ascertain the reasons for or against the claim we accept it for the time being because of a demonstration in Blair and Fulton Counties last week, and we purpose holding it until it is satisfactorily refuted; we are open to conviction.

In the issue of last week the Fulton Republican gave its readers conclusions to which it had come with regard to Mr. Penrose's man at Harrisburg under the head "Governor Tener Making Good," and these conclusions were no doubt read with interest by the people of Fulton, and perhaps the editor of our McConnellsburg contemporary was heartily congratulated upon his estimate of the new Governor.

But there was another claimant to the discovery of the admirable traits of the State's Executive. The Hollidaysburg Register, too, had been studying the same subject, and, placing a higher estimate upon its conclusions, printed them next day in a double-leaded editorial under the same caption—"Gov. Tener Making Good."

They state their conclusions not only under the same head, but in the same number of paragraphs, the paragraphs beginning and ending the same and, in short, being the same. And since "the whole is equal to the sum of its parts" the articles are the same.

To reject the idea that their minds run in the same channels would necessitate accounting for the articles in some other way. It may be suggested that the Register copied the article from the Republican, the latter having appeared one day earlier; but this theory is not tenable, for it appeared as an editorial in the Register and without credit to its neighbor. Or it might be held that the manuscript was prepared early by the Register and that the Republican filched a carbon copy from the Register's waste basket while making a friendly call. A second thought causes this theory to fall, for the distance between the two towns is too great for the editor of the Fulton paper to have made the trip and "get on press" in time.

Again, it may occur to some that the copy, the same copy, was furnished to both papers from an independent source; from Republican headquarters, for instance. This theory, too, falls upon examination of the articles, for the one says "since United States Senator Penrose became the 'organized' leader" while the other uses the word "recognized."

This is no "Cook-Pearry" controversy. There is honor enough in the wonderful article for both. The strains of the music from out of Fulton had scarce died away in the surrounding mountains when the voice of the Hollidaysburg singer was heard on the hill tops. "Honor to whom honor is due." Call it the Over-Shimer song.

STATE COMMITTEE TO MEET

The action of Hon. Arthur G. Dewalt, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, in refusing to call the committee together at the request of the Democratic delegation in Congress from this state, has been discussed pro and con in the newspapers of the commonwealth, many of which have severely censured him for not issuing a call to the committee to assemble to "reorganize" the party, without stopping to consider the course they pursued.

The rules of the state committee clearly define the conditions under which the committee may be assembled. It is the duty of the Chairman to issue a call upon the written request of a given number of the members of the committee.

Had Chairman Dewalt issued a call without such request from the required number of members of the committee, the probability is that many of the same papers that now censure him would then have cried "boss" and accused him of exceeding his authority. He was doomed to be denounced in either case. We give him credit with having taken the right course, the orderly and legal course. He did not go off on a tangent.

Now that the required number of members have sent in requests he will issue the call in due time and in order.

But what shall be stated as the object? Do those who are loud in their cries for reorganization simply want the "ins" out and the "outs" in? What is meant by reorganization?

Had The Gazette the framing of the call it would be broad; would be for the transaction of such business and to take such steps as may result in unifying the different elements that all may work harmoniously for the good of the party. The time is here for discussions and bickerings to have spent their fury. Let the committee meet, and when it does meet let judgment and common sense pervade the meeting.

Fishertown

February 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore, of Alum Bank, spent Tuesday at the home of Joseph Griffith.

Mrs. Rebecca Blattenberger was called to Altoona last Saturday on account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Amick.

Mrs. Mary A. Blackburn and daughter, Miss Margaretta, after spending a month with friends in Everett and Bedford, returned to their home recently.

William C. Hoover, whose illness has been spoken of, is at this writing very sick with little hope of recovery.

Mrs. T. E. Berkheimer has been added to the sick list.

Watson Moore of Hollidaysburg was in our town a few days recently.

Mr. Griffith of Johnstown is stopping at the home of his uncle, Charles Wolfe.

On last Friday Mrs. Margaret Miller of New Paris celebrated her ninety-third birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ealy Blackburn, of this place. Those present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. George McCreary, of East Freedom; Mr. and Mrs. Marsdon and two sons, of Roaring Spring; Mrs. David Miller and Ira Blackburn and son, of Alum Bank. There were present three children, four grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren. Mrs. Miller received one hundred fifty post cards. She is very bright and healthy for a lady of ninety years. After a sumptuous dinner and an afternoon spent in cheerful conversation, all returned to their homes wishing the good old lady more pleasant birthdays.

Point

February 1.—The changeable weather has been the cause of many bad colds; in some cases pneumonia has developed. There are very few persons you meet that do not have bad colds or grip.

Maj. W. H. Leffingwell has been sick since Friday last, when Dr. E. L. Smith was called in to see him. He claims that he is some better at this writing.

Robert C. Smith is also confined to his bed with a bad spell of his old complaint, pleurisy. He is not improving any at this writing.

Mrs. George Griffith and son Frank were both ill with grip. Dr. Kirk treated them and they are now much better.

D. M. Wonders is also complaining of some of his old troubles and is taking medicine.

Mrs. William Vinegardner had to call a doctor last week, and we are glad to report her much better at this time.

Miss Myrtle Shull lost her muf on the road between this place and Wolfsburg on January 13.

Everybody complains of bad roads. We have been accustomed to our roads being so good and solid all summer, fall and winter that a little mud in the roads seems to be very annoying.

Mrs. Brisbin, widow of James Brisbin, who was a member of Co. 1, 55th Regt. Pa. Vols. and who was killed at Chapin's Farm, Va., is dead at the residence of her nephew, George A. Ellenberger, of Tully Hill. Mrs. Brisbin was a sister of Jacob, John and George Ellenberger and has been making her home with her nephew for about a year. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the Schellsburg Lutheran Church, conducted by Rev. H. W. Bender. Interment in the Schellsburg Cemetery. Hooker.

WHIPPED THE LEOPARD.

But It Took a Troop of Baboons to Kill the Big Cat.

A vivid pen picture of a fight between a leopard and a troop of baboons is given in a German paper by P. Bitter, a sportsman and explorer in German West Africa. Leopards have a particular liking for baboon flesh, which is often used as bait to trap them.

"One afternoon," the hunter relates, "I was resting on the shady side of a big rock which formed the bank of a small stream. On the opposite side a troop of baboons came down chattering toward the water, a large male going cautiously in front, glancing and scenting around for danger. I remained immobile.

"A deep grunt assured the herd that all was well, and down the steep slope they came, last of all a female with two young, which the mother tenderly helped over the rough places. Suddenly a big leopard shot out from behind a boulder and with one blow of his paw grabbed one of the young.

"The mother, with a roar of fury, threw herself upon the big cat. The others halted and with one accord clambered back to her assistance. The leopard had just settled the female and was about to make off with his prey when he found himself surrounded by the whole horde, which closed in upon him.

"He gave as good as he got, and two big baboons rolled down the slope apparently done for, but numbers told, and he was literally torn to pieces. It was a horribly fascinating sight, and I never regretted more having no camera with me than I did then."

THEY DIDN'T FIGHT.

It Was Only a Little Friendly Discussion That Excited Them.

Two Spaniards were conversing earnestly, then excitedly, at last angrily. The young American woman who passed them looked with frightened eyes toward her Spanish guide.

"What are they talking about, Senor Jose?" she asked timidly. "Do you think they will fight—or maybe kill?"

"Ah, no, Senorita Marie," replied Jose, smiling and showing his pretty teeth. "One man—that one, you see, senorita, with the long mustachios—he is saying, 'Me, I prefer much the colaire button which is steel,' and the other one—look, senorita—he is running his fingers through his hair now and his sombrero has a gold cord—he is saying, 'Ah, no, senor, the button which is of gold—si, senor, that is the button for me.'"

"But as for myself, senorita, the bone colaire button—that I prefer above all the others."

"Do I not speak with good sense, senorita? Listen. If the button is of steel it will cut, if it is of gold one cannot afford to lose it, but if it is of bone it does not cut, and if it goes what matter? I have a dozen at home in my little top drawer."

"You speak with great good sense, Don Jose, but tell me—were the men really angry?"

"Oh, not at all, senorita. It is only our southern way of being interested in what we discuss. If it had been two Germans, senorita, or maybe two Englishmen, you would never have noticed them."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Then They Talked in English.

A couple of Cleveland business men visited Mexico. In Mexico City their train was switched from one station to another. One of the Clevelanders went to the first station to make inquiries. Approaching a pair of dark visaged employees, he cudgeled his memory for the proper words from the phrase book.

"Donde esta?" he hesitatingly asked and paused.

The two dark visaged persons listened attentively.

"Gracias," stammered the Cleveland man. "Donde estan?"

Then one of the men looked at the other.

"Say, Bill," he growled, "what in merry blue blazes is this fellow talkin' about?"

And after that it was easy.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Donkey's Choice.

The vexed question of the future life of animals has troubled the Mohammedan, as it has other religions. The question, it seems, was considered by Allah a long time ago, and all the animals were asked if they wished to enter paradise. They at once said yes, except the donkeys. These were cautious and asked if little boys went to heaven. The answer being yes, they replied, "In that case we prefer to go to the other place." S. H. Leeder vouches for the fable in "The Desert Gateway."

HOFFMAN'S METROPOLITAN CLOTHING AND SHOE HOUSE Bedford, Pa.

The Japanese Umbrella

A Chinese Episode and Its Horrible Effect

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association.

A whole year passed after Nelson's return from Asia before he found himself again treading an oriental street and rubbing elbows with slant eyed, blue bloused Chinese. His present position in the custom house made it necessary that he should visit a well known silk importer, whose place of business lay in the heart of San Francisco's reconstructed Chinatown.

Jay Nelson had been glad enough to eliminate all memory of his last year in China. There had been one horrible incident from which he had fled, but whose shadow had lurked in the background of his daily life since his return to America. In broad daylight he had laughed at the fears that pursued his first sleep, fear haunted nights. After awhile the fear gave place to a sense of security fostered by the practical workaday happenings of his busy life.

Today, however, as he passed along Dupont street and turned into a narrower thoroughfare there burst upon him the significant fact that this part of a great city was but a fragment of the old eastern world after all.

He had to pause once or twice and inquire his way, for the house of the importer was set in the heart of the web of streets and alleys. Then when his goal lay but a few yards ahead, there sprang into sudden view, bobbing along in the crowd before him, a certain green and gold paper parasol, the meaning of which was all too clear to Jay Nelson. He had a vague realization that this emblem of an old horror might have been evolved from his own morbid fancy.

He pressed forward, eager to stretch forth his hand and prove that the Japanese umbrella was a thing of air, was an optical illusion. But always it danced before him like a will-o'-the-wisp, now showing a glint of gold and green and then melting into a dozen illusive tints.

Where it went there he too must follow until he could prove by actual contact with its surface that it was a creation of his fancy and not the dreaded emblem of the White Brother hood.

It drew him on down into the very bowels of the earth.

The paper umbrella collapsed and was cast aside, while the bearer turned to confront Nelson. Then the latter awoke from his trance-like state and stared first at the strange face that confronted him, then about the small dungeon-like room, empty of furniture and reeking with foul odors and lighted by a single swiveling oil lamp. Nelson's gaze came back to the face of the Chinese, and he shivered slightly, for the face was that of a member of the dreaded order—the sign was written on the man's brow.

Instantly Nelson whipped off his coat, holding it before him as a shield and backed to the stairway leading upward.

"Hold a moment," said the Chinese in the Cantonese dialect; "I am not alone."

"Who else?" demanded Nelson sharply in the same tongue.

"The brotherhood—at each stair head they await your coming if you contemplate flight," returned the Chinese imperturbably.

"What do you want with me?"

"Command of the big brother that you be brought before him for trial."

"He came from Hongkong to seek me?"

The Chinese cackled shrilly. Then he spat contemptuously. "The brotherhood is everywhere. Captain Leeson—wherever there are offenders there also will be found a tribunal of the brotherhood."

"Why do you call me by Captain Leeson's name?" questioned Nelson warily.

"Because you ate he."

"Suppose I am not?"

"You are!" asserted the man roughly. "The brotherhood does not make mistakes."

"You blunder this time. I am Nelson."

The other laughed derisively. "I was told you would claim that name Nelson died that night."

"Ah," cried Nelson suddenly, "you are the big brother! This is the tribunal. You are alone, you thought to fool me; see you later, Tai Laao!" He started to leap up the stairs and then stopped short.

Tai Laao made no move to arrest his flight. He merely folded his long claw tipped fingers into either capacious sleeve and smiled widely.

It was this smile that halted Nelson's departure, the smile and a certain hissing whisper that sang down the stairway and bore warning on its breath.

Again he turned to the Chinese. "Have it over with this court of yours! Be quick, for I have business to attend to—matters of importance."

"Very good, Captain Leeson," commented the man called Tai Laao. "Follow me."

He led the way to a shadowy corner and pushed open a door into another dimly lighted room. At a long table sat seven men, three on either side and one at the end. At the farther end of the table there stood a wide armed empty chair. Except for a low swung lamp above the table the room was devoid of other furnishing.

"Captain Leeson," he announced in a low voice, "on trial for betraying secrets of the White Brothers."

"Captain Leeson died, as you all know," said Nelson sternly. "I saw him die, killed by your orders. He died in the street of—"

"Silence!" menaced the leader. "He claims to be Nelson, the one who died that night."

The seven nodded in unison, but did not remove their gaze from Nelson's angry face.

He kept silence now, briefly reviewing the strange events that had snatched him from the busy streets of the city into as dismal a den of murderers as one might hope to find along the water front of any Chinese city.

Before his eyes there flashed a picture of his last year in China. Then he had been in the diplomatic service of his country. Leeson, his friend, an Englishman in the British employ at Hongkong—inspector of health or something of that sort—had interested Nelson in his establishment of a leper colony down in Anam.

It was Leeson's ambition to clean out the lepers hidden in the city, to root them out from their places of concealment and transport them to the colony where preparations had been made for their segregation, where their cases should be studied and modern methods be employed.

It happened that the afflicted ones looked on the idea of banishment with distaste. They cared little to be herded together in a foreign province far from friends and familiar scenes. They cared nothing whatever for the benefits that might accrue to posterity through their segregation.

Leeson's efforts met with little success, and he brought the law to his aid. Thus he gained permission to capture the afflicted ones, and so his colony prospered for awhile. Then there was formed against him the society of the White Brothers, created to protect the lepers scattered throughout the city from Leeson's agents. Each one bore some mark of the disease, and they had some other emblem by which they might be known to each other if the mark of the disease was not plain enough. And this emblem was the green and gold paper umbrella, with its snaky twisting golden dragon coiling in and out of the green painted bamboo shoots.

Nelson remembered the first time he had seen them—that night of Leeson's carefully planned expedition into a suspected quarter. It was at night, and red lanterns had lighted the street down its crooked length. Suddenly there had burst upon them and the three agents who accompanied Leeson a hideous babel of cracked voices; a horrible spectacle of ghastly faces; a leprosy mob that leered and jeered at them; that drove them point by point toward the end of the street of lepers: a yelling crowd that received the bullets from their revolvers and died noisily; a filthy crew that tried to touch them, that longed to render them as loathsome as itself.

Leeson had been killed, and Nelson tried to forget the sight as the rest of them got away. The next day he led a party back to the street, but it was deserted. Even poor Leeson's body had disappeared. After this outbreak the matter went under the supervision of a large medical corps, and the colony at Anam was augmented by several hundred cases. Nelson resigned from the service and went home, sickened of the whole dubious web of oriental life, thankful that he had escaped contact—that he was clean.

Now they had found him out they would take their revenge for his betrayal of their outbreak. It pleased them to call him by Leeson's name. As Leeson he would probably die in this hole in the ground under San Francisco.

Nelson determined to force some immediate action from the men who had sprung up in this faraway city to call him to account for his setting the hounds of law upon their trail. All his hideous dreams of the past year seemed to have been realized in the strange events of this day that would undoubtedly be his last on earth.

It had been a strange day, and even now, face to face with death—for the presence of these White Brothers meant nothing less—he seemed to be moving in a dream more frightful than anything his sleeping mind had conceived.

"Fire ahead," he said recklessly; "I'm not afraid of you. Come on, every devil's imp of you!" He flashed out the revolver he always carried just as they arose in a body and came at him, a ghastly company with stretching, clawing fingers and fiendish eyes.

Then Jay Nelson awoke. He sat up in bed, his brow dripping sweat and his heart pounding with excitement, for once more he had dreamed of the Japanese umbrella and the horrible band whose emblem it was. This was the worst dream of all, and he murmured devout thanks that it had been a dream.

Sitting there with the morning sun shine streaming into the room and a fresh breeze from the bay ruffling his hair, Nelson saw the early newspaper slid under his door. Eager to be in touch with the commonplace of every day life, he fetched it and read the headlines. After awhile, in a corner of the sheet, he read that the Hongkong authorities were satisfied that they had rid that city of its lepers. The White Brotherhood had been broken up, and most of its members were in Anam colony. The leader, Tai Laao, was dead. Captain Leeson's death had been avenged.

Jay Nelson went forth that morning a care free man to interview the silk importer in Chinatown. At last he was emancipated from fear. He would dream no more.

ATTRACTIVE TRIFLES.

A Millinery Beauty Secret—The Season's Materials.

If you want to look pretty when you are sipping afternoon tea see that the hat you wear is lined with a color that matches your eyes. This is one of the little things that help amazingly in the quest for good looks.

Velvet is an old story, but there are a few new chapters this season. The changeable velvet is the latest. It is colorful and twice as effective as a one toned fabric and gives double opportunity for color alliance. There are also checked velvets and moire velvets, each name explaining to you the general character of the cloth.

Persian gauze shows to what a beautiful extent the rage for the Persian pattern has gone. On silver gauze the Persian designs are printed with wonderful results.

MEDICAL RESEARCH.

Romance of the Discovery of the Cause of Malaria.

In the history of research are many romances. Of the discovery that malaria was caused by mosquitoes, it is related how Dr. Low and Dr. Sambon lived in the malarious Roman Campagna without quinine. They retired at sunset to a mosquito proof hut, with double doors and windows of wire net, and they did not leave until sunrise. The fact that they remained immune, while the attendants, sleeping outside, contracted malaria, confirmed the belief that the mosquitoes were responsible.

But how did they carry the disease? At first it was thought to be by water. To settle the question live mosquitoes which had bitten infected peasants were sent home and two members of the school submitted to be bitten by them. They both went down with malaria. Again, how did the mosquitoes transmit the germ?

By cutting sections of the proboscis the malarious parasite was found. It breaks through the skin of the proboscis and is transmitted at the time of the sting. From the first conjecture to the final proof was a series of careful experiments, ending with the slicing of the mosquito's proboscis. Now, this is finer than fine hair. It is necessary to stop to think. For it is easier to imagine the triumph of the proof than the delicate operation that produced it.—London Standard.

LIGHTING BY GAS.

It Was a Costly Process When It Was First Established.

The first incorporated gas company was the National Light and Heat Company of England, established in 1809. In America the first gas company was incorporated in Baltimore in 1816, the second one in Boston in 1822, and the next one was the New York Gaslight company, incorporated in 1823.

Prior to 1830 the gas business of this country was nominal, but the price probably was responsible for its slow development. From 1824 to 1828, says Moody's Magazine, the New York Gaslight company sold gas to consumers at the rate of $10 a thousand cubic feet.

The first artificial illuminating gas was produced in England about 1726 by one Dr. Hales, but not until 1786 was a practical test made. In that year the Earl of Dundonald of Scotland arranged an apparatus by which he lighted his castle with gas. The same year William Murdoch of Birmingham, England, introduced gas as a light in his workshops at Redruth and Cornwall.

As Mr. Murdoch was the first man to reap any commercial benefit from the discovery of the use of illuminating gas, he may properly be accredited as the father of modern public utilities. In 1813 London bridge was illuminated by gas, and five years later gas was in general use throughout the main part of London.

Red Letter Days.

The origin of a "red letter day" has been traced back to the third century Gregory, bishop of Caesarea, zealous for the conversion of pagans, found them unwilling to give up their customary recreations at the festivals of their gods, so taking a leaf out of their book, he instituted festivals in honor of saints and martyrs. This example soon led to the institution of holy days, now corrupted into holidays. In old almanacs all such holy days were set forth in red ink, the rest being in black; hence the term "red letter day" for any notable occasion. Others say that the origin of the expression is much more recent and is due to the fact that Saints' day, the 5th of November, the king's birthday and accession and King Charles' day were similarly marked off in red as holidays for the Bank of England, evidently in the times of the later Stuarts.—London Telegraph.

Political Animositities.

Political animositities today are seldom carried into private life. In the past just the opposite was the rule. "Coke of Norfolk" once stated that when he was a child his grandfather took him on his knee and said, "Now, remember, Tom as long as you live never trust a Tory," and he used to add, "I never have, and, by George, I never will." G. W. E. Russell, too, tells of an eccentric maiden lady whom he knew in his youth who having spent her life in the innermost circles of aristocratic Whiggery, always refused to enter a cab until she had extorted from the driver an assurance that he had never carried cases of infectious disease, that he was not a Puseyite and that he was a Whig.—London Graphic.

Lesson VI.—First Quarter, For Feb. 5, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings xvii, 1-16. Memory Verses, 14-16—Golden Text, Ps. xxiv, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The first sentence of our lesson tells us all we know of the parentage of Elijah. He comes before us as suddenly as a meteor and disappears when his work is done in a way that no one else ever did before or since. Enoch also was translated without dying, but we read of no whirlwind or horses and chariots of fire. Elijah was honored to stand with the Lord Jesus and with Moses on the Mount of Transfiguration, and Jesus said of him, "Elijah truly shall first come and restore all things," adding that he had already come in the person of John the Baptist, but they knew him not and ill treated him (Matt. xvii, 3; xi, 13). Therefore we conclude that John the Baptist, who came in the spirit and power of Elijah, was to the first coming of Christ what the real Elijah will be to His coming in glory to set up His kingdom. When some who will be more wicked than Ahab and Jezebel shall be showing the power of the devil, then Elijah and a companion shall be the Lord's two witnesses in Jerusalem (Rev. xi, 3-11).

His name means "my God is Jah," and one has said that he is the grandest and most romantic character that Israel ever produced. His one mission was to bring apostate Israel back to Jehovah the true God. He was nurtured in lonely communion with God, away from the polluting court amidst his native wilds (Fausset). His first utterance is, "The Lord God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand (verse 1; see also xvii, 15, and II Kings iii, 14). We think of Gabriel's testimony, "I am Gabriel that stands in the presence of God" (Luke i, 19), and he it was who said that the son of Zacharias should go in the spirit and power of Elijah. Israel had been faithfully warned that if they turned aside to serve other gods and worship them the Lord would shut up the heaven that there be no rain (Deut. xi, 16, 17), so that Elijah's prayer that it should not rain (Jas. v, 17) was simply a prayer that God would do as He said and make good His word and show Himself as the living and true God, for if He failed to fulfill His threat the people would think it an idle tale.

Elijah could say, "In the Lord have I righteousness and strength;" "I rest on Thee, and in Thy name I go" (Isa. xiv, 24; II Chron. xiv, 11). Therefore he was not afraid to meet Ahab or to deliver his message. This being done, he receives two distinct messages from the Lord telling him where to sojourn for the next three years, and first he is told to hide himself by the brook Cherith and is assured that the ravens would feed him there. He did just as he was told, and the Lord fed him with bread and flesh by means of the ravens morning and evening, and he drank of the brook. So well did the Lord hide him that he could not be found by nation or kingdom (xviii, 10).

If we obey Matt. vi, 33, we may count on its fulfillment, but we must be in the place where God wants us. Mark the word "there" in verse 4. The word here translated "raven" is used ten times and in each place refers to a bird so called. The Lord Jesus indorsed the Elijah story (Luke iv, 23-26), and if any part of it had been not just as recorded He would surely have told us. These lonely days at Cherith make us think of Joseph in Egypt as a prisoner, or Moses in Midian, or John the Baptist in the wilderness, or Paul in Arabia. Nothing can take the place of being alone with God. Then we must learn to wait patiently God's time and find our rest and joy in Himself. If His gifts seem to fail us, like the brook that dried up, He has some other way. He cannot fail; He abideth faithful.

He has promised never to try us beyond our ability to bear it (I Cor. x, 13), and in due time He ordered His faithful servant to another place of sojourn, but what an unlikely place it was as we see things—the home of a poor widow who had no food in the house but a handful of meal and a little oil. Elijah found her gathering sticks with which to make, as she thought, her last cake, and then she expected that she and her son would die (verse 12). But by giving her all to the Lord's servant, as the lad did his loaves and fishes, several were fed for many days, and the meal wasted not, neither did the cruse of oil fail (verse 16).

From our lesson it would seem that the prophet was sent to the widow that she might sustain him (verse 9), while from the record in Luke iv, 25, 26, it appears that Elijah was sent to the widow that she might be sustained. Well, it worked both ways, and the widow was sustained by her giving her all to the Lord. No doubt He also cared well for that other widow who cast all her living into the treasury. God was also glorified in this Sarepta home by the raising to life of the widow's son, thus strengthening her faith in the God of Elijah, according to verse 24, "Now, by this I know that thou art a man of God and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is truth."

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON

Washington, D. C., January 29.—Pastor Russell addressed large audiences twice today in Convention Hall and also in Masonic Temple. He had close attention from very intelligent congregations. We report his address on Satan, the rebel angel.

Doubtless many of the audience were surprised when told that Satan is not in some far-off place "stoking fires and torturing human or other victims," but that he is present amongst men, an invisible angel of evil, ably supported in his work as an adversary of God by legions of other fallen angels, of whom he is a master—"Prince of demons," either because of his superiority of nature, or because of belonging to a higher rank or grade than the ordinary angel. It was a surprise to many to learn that Satan, so far from being ill favored, is beautiful, according to the Scriptures, and that he is supervising the work directly and through the fallen angels, his servants, to mislead and to deceive humanity—putting light for darkness and darkness for light, error for truth, etc.

Pastor Russell's text was taken from Romans xvi, 20, "The God of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly." He said:

The time was not long ago when intelligent people made light of everything in the Scriptures respecting invisible spirit beings, good and bad—the messengers of God and the messengers of Satan. This, however, can no longer be done. Under the increasing light of the New Dispensation man himself today can do things which but a short time ago would have been considered impossible. Can we not speak with our friends over hundreds of miles with a telephone and recognize each other's voices? Yet there is no pipe, no tube to convey the sounds and nothing, seemingly, carries it over the wire. We speak into a hole in the wall and our friends hundreds of miles away hear audibly. Still more marvelous is wireless telegraphy and wireless telephony. If man can accomplish these things what cannot the Almighty accomplish? Who can deny the possibility of invisible presence of spirit beings and yet admit the possibility of wireless telegraphy? We are safe, dear friends, in guiding our judgments directly by the Word of God and reasoning inside and not outside of its boundaries.

The Bible, and it alone, explains certain phenomena and all of the Bible explanations, although written, some of them centuries apart, are in most perfect accord. Thus in Genesis the Bible tells us respecting Satan's defection, and the book of Revelation, written more than three thousand years later, tells us of his binding for a thousand years, of Messiah's reign and Satan's ultimate destruction. Isaiah and Ezekiel tell us of his at one time being in full harmony with God, and that then he was the "covering cherub," glorious, grand, beautiful, and that his name was Lucifer, which signifies the Morning Star.

All of the angelic heavenly hosts are termed stars, bright ones; but Lucifer, being of a higher order, was styled the Morning Star, the Brightest Star. It was at that time, while in Divine favor, that Satan permitted the lodgment in his mind of a disloyal thought respecting his Creator. He thought of how, indirectly, by being in higher responsibility, he could work some wonders and do some things better than the Almighty. He craved the opportunity to make a demonstration of what he could do.

SORE FEET GO

F. W. Jordan Lands the Agency for Ezo, Already the Greatest Remedy for Painful Feet.

Rejoice and be glad all ye residents of Bedford who suffer from sore, painful, burning or smarting feet for F. W. Jordan now sells Ezo for the feet the different remedy that banishes all misery from the feet and makes them feel fine in almost no time.

Ezo for the feet is a purified ointment, very pleasant to use, and a large glass jar only costs 25 cents.

It surely is the finest thing on earth for swollen or aching feet, and it promptly extracts the pain and soreness from corns, bunions and callouses.

If you want a pair of comfortable feet that won't give you any bother throughout a strenuous day get Ezo for the feet and rub it in.

Besides Ezo for the feet we also make EZO REFINED OINTMENT an unfailing remedy for chapped hands and face; for a delightful massage; for use after shaving, for red nose and for all diseases of the skin.

The price of Ezo Refined Ointment is 50 cents a jar, but a trial treatment will be sent to any address on receipt of 4 cents in stamps to cover mailing. Ezo Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y.

But the Scriptures declared that first of all he said this merely in his heart and uttered it not. "He said in his heart, I will ascend into heaven; I will exalt my throne above the stars of God (still farther above his angelic associates), I will be as the Most High"—a ruler.

The Opportune Time Came

Never had there been sin in heaven. Satan was the first of all its inhabitants to cherish, to entertain a rebellious thought and to bring it to a consummation. He held the thought in abeyance until the opportunity afforded, and God himself afforded the opportunity, with full knowledge of the consequences, and with the desire that this test of the entire heavenly host, and of a human race as well, should be effected because God seeketh not the worship of constraint, but "seeketh such for worshipers as worship him in spirit and in truth," voluntarily, joyfully.

It was when Satan beheld our first parents, in the image and likeness of God, yet not spirit but flesh, earthly, that he perceived the opportunity of gaining the coveted power for an empire, separate from that of Jehovah. In the first pair the Adversary beheld a new thing, a creature of Godlike qualities and possessed of the power to propagate his own species. Satan realized that the conquest of this pair and the bringing of them into subjection to himself would signify the capture of a world full of people eventually—that the enslavement of the parents would signify the enslavement eventually of the race.

Satan's Methods Were Successful

We cannot deny that Satan's plans were logical and that he has carried them out with great success—so that the Scriptures declare him "the Prince of this world" (John xiv, 30); and again, "the God of this world" (II Corinthians iv, 4). Nevertheless, his victory was not so great a one as he doubtless expected it to be. No doubt he expected that he was capturing an immortal race. Quite probably he believed the falsehood he told mother Eve, when he contradicted the Word of God—that sin, that disobedience in eating the forbidden fruit, would bring upon them the penalty of death, "dying thou shalt die."

Satan's charge was that God had misrepresented the facts for the purpose of holding his creatures in mental slavery to himself; that he did not wish them to be wise, therefore he forbade the eating of this particular kind of fruit and declared the penalty of death for the transgression of his law. "I, Satan, assure you that you need not be afraid of the fruit; I assure you that it will do you good, and that you will not surely die from the eating of it." Alas! Mother Eve believed the Adversary and disobeyed her God, and then enticed her husband, still thinking, no doubt, that she would not die and that the serpent had told her the truth and that God had been the deceiver. St. Paul tells us that father Adam knew better and ate the fruit, knowing that it would cause his death, willing thus to disobey in order to maintain the fellowship of his wife, whose life, he realized, was already forfeited.

When the Divine sentence began to go into execution; when our first parents were driven out of Eden to battle with the thorns and thistles until they should return to the dust, no doubt Satan was disappointed. He had rather be the Prince of a noble living family of angels or of humans than the Emperor of a weak and dying race. However, from that day to the present time he has been fighting upon the same line; he has been contending with mankind that the Word of God is false when it declares that "the wages of sin is death," and that "the soul that sinneth it shall die." From that day to this he has been using this falsehood to the injury of our race, and surely he has succeeded wonderfully.

Today, not only in heathen lands, but amongst the most civilized, it is freely believed (and by many Christians considered Scriptural) to believe the nonsensical that a dead man is more alive than before he died. People of good, sound reasoning, faculties on ordinary subjects seem to be "hoodwinded" by this falsehood of Satan, "ye shall not surely die." So true is this, that it seems not inconsistent to them to say, that a man hit over the head with a stick and knocked senseless, knows nothing, but a man, hit over the head harder and killed, knows everything.

Satan and the fall of man that the Lord permitted the great test to come upon the angels of heaven, under which test a host of them fell into sin, disobedience, etc., and since then are known in the Scriptures as the fallen angels and as devils—more properly demons. Two weeks from today, D. V., we will consider their temptation and sin and penalty and whether or not there be any hope. Suffice it to say now that these fallen angels, demons, are under Satan as their great Prince and that they have been his active agents in long centuries in deceiving mankind and opposing the Divine Program.

It would have been as easy as not for God to have blotted out of existence entirely both Satan and the fallen angels, and man also, and to have completed another creation, angelic and human. But such was not the Divine Program. God's ways are not as man's ways, but higher—as the heavens are higher than the earth (Isaiah lv, 9).

Satan the Great Murderer

No less an authority than our great Lord and Redeemer tells us that Satan was a murderer and a liar. He declares that he was a murderer from the beginning and abode not in the truth; when he speaketh a lie he speaketh of his own, for he is the father of lies (John viii, 44). It is well that we keep this Divine testimony in our minds. It is well that we note just what the first great lie was, namely, Satan's misrepresentation, saying, "Ye shall not surely die." It is important that we notice this, because so thoroughly has Satan accomplished his deceptive work that practically everybody, heathen and civilized, accept Satan's version of the matter and discredit the Almighty's.

Let us note also that Satan is a murderer; that he murdered Father Adam and Mother Eve, and that his

CAUSES 95 PER CENT. OF DYSPEPSIA

Advice Concerning Stomach Troubles and How to Remedy Them.

Do not neglect indigestion which leads to all sorts of ills and complications. An eminent doctor once said that ninety-five per cent. of all the ills of the human body have their origin in a disordered stomach.

A physician who made a specialty of stomach troubles, particularly dyspepsia, after years of study perfected the formula from which Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are made.

Our experience with Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets leads us to believe them to be the greatest remedy known for the relief of acute indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. They are rich in pepsin, one of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine. The relief they afford is almost immediate. Their use with persistency and regularity for a short time brings about a cessation of the pains caused by stomach disorders.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will insure healthy appetite, aid digestion and promote nutrition. As evidence of our sincere faith in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give you entire satisfaction, we will return you the money you paid us for them, without question or formality. They come in three sizes, prices 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain them only at our store.—The Rexall Store. F. W. Jordan.

lie is still murdering our race under the just laws of heredity. The error of believing Satan instead of God has gotten many into the confused situation of disclaiming that God proposed that man should live forever on earth in a Paradise, and, as his family would increase and continue in harmony with his Divine regulations, the boundaries of his Paradise would be enlarged and be a Paradise filled with the knowledge of God and the home of a perfect humanity, in accord with God, privileged to maintain everlasting life here. But, says this theory, by Satan's lie and our first parents' fall, we die and by dying become more alive and some of us go to heaven, and the mass to some eternal, fiery hell, of which we have no knowledge and for which there is no Scripture proof.

But let God be true and let us see how and wherein Satan lied when he contradicted our Maker, and let us see also how our race was not sent to heaven or to a hell of torment, but was murdered, killed, put to death—"The wages of sin is death."

"The Gift of God is Eternal Life" (Romans vi, 23)

God, while permitting Satan and sin and depravity and death to take their course, has not been idle. He has had, and still has, a great plan for human salvation—a plan for recovering man from sin and from death and from all of his fallen conditions, a plan of restitution to human uplift, a plan by which the Seed of the woman shall yet, figuratively, crush the Serpent's head, or undo Satan's great original misdeed—recover man from his murdered condition and from his fallen estate to all that he had at first, plus the knowledge and experience of the present life and plus the experience, incidental to his uplift, during the reign of Messiah, for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come."

The Scriptures clearly show us that all of this recovery is to be accomplished through the merit of Jesus' sacrifice—"the just for the unjust." That the work has not yet begun is evident. We are still living under the law of sin and death. The Messianic Kingdom must come in power and great glory and be established, the Scriptures tell us, in a great time of trouble. Then the earth will be made to blossom as the rose, and the wilderness and the solitary places will be made glad, and all mankind will receive Divine blessing and opportunity to return to Divine favor and eternal life as human beings. And the wilfully disobedient and negligent of those opportunities will die the Second Death, from which there will be no recovery, no resurrection, no hope.

"The Saints Shall Judge the World" (I Corinthians vi, 2)

These great blessings of restitution, for which Israel and the whole world are waiting, cannot be brought about until first the special salvation of a special class, the salvation of the very elect—not to human nature, but to a heavenly nature, as the Bride of Christ—shall be accomplished. The selecting of these has progressed for nearly nineteen centuries and, apparently, is about complete. The Divine blessing and work then to be inaugurated will be restitution to earthly nature and perfection—"to the Jew first."

Satan Serves the Saints

During all these centuries, while Satan has been the Prince or ruler amongst the children of this world, and while he has blinded them with his sophistries and falsehoods, he has also done another work for the saintly few now being called to the heavenly places. For these he has, so to speak, turned a polishing grindstone to prepare them for the riches of the heavenly glory as new creatures, as heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ their Lord. Quite unwittingly, we may be sure, he has served the Creator's purposes and helped to prepare, through trials, this class for the glorious things which God has in reservation for those that love him.

In Divine dealings, God's wisdom, foreseeing the end, is able to use the wrath of men and of the fallen angels and of Satan to praise him and to work out blessings to his elect Church, and the remainder, which does not thus work, he can and does restrain. Hence the Divine promise that "all things shall work together for good to those that love God, to the called ones according to his purpose."

Satan as an Angel of Light

St. Paul declares of Satan, "We are not ignorant of his devices," and he tells us that Satan and his servants transform themselves into servants of righteousness, etc. We see this principle in operation as we read Church history. Satan, all through this Age, has sought to pervert Christian hopes and distort Christian doctrines by presenting counterfeits of Bible truths. Thus, for instance, the Scriptures tell us that eventually the Church, "a little flock," will be associated with Messiah in his Kingdom of glory to reign a thousand years. It was Satan's method to counterfeit this hope, to suggest to men the establishment of an earthly Kingdom with an earthly little flock, an earthly glory, an earthly reign. This was set forth as the fulfillment of the second Psalm.

And when later on some of Satan's dupes began to get free from some of his snares, he became their leader in an opposite direction, called them reformers and led them to claim that all the civilized kingdoms of the earth are the kingdoms of Christ. This is the status of affairs today. The world in general believes that Christ's Kingdom has come, even though they are still praying, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Satan has led them away from careful attention to making their own calling and election sure by Christian character development, into the various reform movements of the world, whose trial time has not yet come. Thus Christians of all denominations have been bewildered, confused by the artful wiles of our enemy.

Now, however, as the morning of the New Dispensation dawns, our eyes of understanding are opening. We perceive that our Adversary has but a short time until he must be bound for a thousand years; that the Messianic Kingdom must prevail that all the families of the earth may be blessed through the Seed of Abraham. Finally, at the close of that reign of righteousness, the Scriptures declare that Satan shall be destroyed.

The Church is the Body of Christ, of Messiah. Hence, the Apostle's words of our text apply to the Church in glory—"The god of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly."

But He Doesn't Live in Bedford Nor Read The Gazette.

A man in Connecticut gave a doctor, a specialist in catarrh, $50 to cure him of this common yet most obnoxious disease.

The specialist gave him a bottle of medicine and told him to use it.

The fool took the medicine home, took one dose, put it on a shelf and made no further effort to follow instructions.

Three months later, with the medicine still on the shelf, he told a friend that the specialist was a fake; that he had paid him $50 and still had catarrh. HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mee) won't cure catarrh if you don't breathe it; it will if you breathe it regularly.

Furthermore, you don't need to give a catarrh specialist $50 to cure you of catarrh, for the specialist is yet to be born who can write a better prescription than HYOMEI.

F. W. Jordan and druggists everywhere guarantee HYOMEI to cure catarrh or money back. A complete outfit which consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber inhaler and simple instructions for use costs only $1.00. Separate bottles of HYOMEI if afterwards needed cost but 50 cents.

ALL THE YEAR AROUND

Either winter or summer, the writing papers

"Made in Berkshire" by

are the papers that are in fashion. Correctness, however, is but one of the good points of these celebrated papers. They are the very highest quality obtainable and excel all others in the matter of color and finish. These are some of the reasons why we carry them, and why you should buy them.

BARGAINS!

Special prices will be made on all Single and Double Heat-Stoves, also Robes, Horse Blankets, Skates and Sleds, to make room for our spring stock.

It will pay you to visit our big store.

COMPANY

A child's foot is bound to grow just so fast. If you crowd it in one place, it grows all the faster in another. That means distortion and crippled feet. "Educator" shoes are the exact shape of the foot, with a little extra room for the toes. Therefore there is no crowding or distortion, and "the feet grow as they should."
